Upcoming AFX Product Releases.

AFX will be releasing some new cars and sets over 2018. Looks like the new releases will be part of sets to start with rather than individual cars. All comments and pictures below are from the AFX Facebook page.

“Fresh out of the injection mold. First shots of the new Ford GT. Note the stance while sitting on a stock chassis. The grill and parts of the rear body work are separate (shown in background) and will be added during production. More details coming soon.”

“Here they are - prototypes (still a bit rough) of the new Ford GTs from the upcoming Super Coupes set. Still a few months out, but they are coming. To get the set out quicker we’ve decided the Lamborghini will not be part of the set, but we do plan to release it as a single car later this year.”

“Yes they are still coming. These are the final engineering prototypes of the Mustang and Red Camaro. They are still a bit rough, the final versions will be smoother and look better (note the new wheel design). These cars are currently at the dock being loaded onto a ship in the next day or so. Once this happens, it takes about a month before they reach retailers. The green Camaro will follow in the next shipment a bit later.”
